

It meant what he said and a man who said I opposed this bill because I was opposed to that, that was the whole of it. Mr. Kelley: "The gentleman does not refer to me."

Mr. Meeker: "I refer to anybody that says that language and I want you to say that straight."

Mr. Kelley: "I want to say to the gentleman that I do not propose to stand here and be insulted by a member of the House who may be sharing the title of doctor of divinity but also the manners of a barroom bully."

Cut Out From Record.

Representative Moore promptly jumped to his feet and yelled through the confusion a demand that the words be taken down and expunged from the record, while friends gathered around Meeker and Kelley in anticipation of a possible physical conflict.

While waiting for the House reporters to transcribe the objectionable passage Representative Gillett, Massachusetts, acting as a peace-maker, sought to play the role of peacemaker by suggesting that both withdraw their remarks.

"What I say will never be withdrawn," replied Meeker angrily, "and no man can refer to me as a barroom bully."

Finally, after the words had been formally reported to the House, Majority Leader Kitchin, moved the entire colloquy be stricken from the record, including the motion to expunge. This was agreed to unanimously.

Then Representative Hamilton, who had been temporarily absent when his remarks were impugned as "canned opinions" by Kelley, resumed the chair. An ovation lasting several minutes was accorded most members of the House rose to their feet to applaud and cheer, testified to the confidence of the House in the chair.

Lever, who controlled half of the time allotted for debate on the Lenroot amendment, yielded four minutes additional to Kelley, who had hardly permitted to stammer an apology for his remarks against Hamilton's decisions before the Republicans by an organized band of constant and noisy opponents of order and parliamentary inquiry, managed to use up the remainder of Kelley's time and prevent his speaking.

Only after Kelley had been literally hoisted from his feet would the House proceed to order.

On the amendment authorizing Government control of distilled spirits, there was no roll call and only a few scattered yays were heard on the viva voce vote.

Other Measure Sweeping.

Originally proposed by Representative Webb of North Carolina, it says: "The President is authorized, if in his opinion it is necessary to conserve necessities, to require any person having control of alcohol and distilled spirits to turn over to Government use or redistribution such proportion of said alcohol or spirits as the President may deem necessary to meet the requirements of the Government in the manufacture of munitions and other military and hospital supplies in so far as such use or redistribution would dispense with the necessity of utilizing products and materials suitable for foods and feeds in the future manufacture of alcohol or distilled spirits for the purposes herein enumerated."

"Upon the failure of the person to comply with the President's requirement the President is authorized to requisition and take possession of the alcohol and distilled spirits and to require the person to pay over to pay for same a just compensation to be determined by the President and if the price so determined be not satisfactory to the person entitled to receive the same, such person shall be paid the amount prescribed by the President and shall be entitled to sue the United States to recover the same, as added to the amount so paid, will be just compensation."

RUSSIAN DRIVE ON LEMBERG EXPECTED

Actions Indicate Renewal of Brusiloff's Campaign in Galicia.

LONDON, June 23.—The possibility of a Russian offensive on the old battlefields of Galicia and Volhynia, a renewal of Gen. Brusiloff's 1916 drive for Lemberg and Kovel, is discussed with eagerness here in the light of the German and Austrian official statements of to-day and in fact of the last few days.

Both Berlin and Vienna announce to-day that the Russian bombardment already reported more powerful in Galicia and Volhynia, is especially violent in the region of Galicia, southeast of Lemberg and sometimes called the key to the Galician capital and fortress. The German statement says the Russian guns were active from the Dunajec to the Lemberg-Tarnopol railway, a distance of forty miles.

The Russian statement announces a clearing outpost action in Volhynia and heavier fire at several points. The Russians also are more active on the Persian-Mesopotamian front. The official statements follow:

German—Eastern (Russian) Theatre: Increased fighting activity prevailed yesterday, especially between the Lemberg-Tarnopol railway (Galicia), and the Danube.

Austrian—Eastern Theatre: On the mountain front and in Volhynia the enemy's artillery was temporarily revived. The Russian artillery continued bombardment of the region south of Brestany (Galicia) was energetically returned by our batteries.

Russian—Western (Russian) Front: In the Stokhod River region near the village of Ponov Volhynia our scouts prepared an ambush and surprised the approaching Germans, showered hand grenades upon them. In the bayonet fighting that followed some Germans were killed. Owing to the approach of German reinforcements, however, our scouts returned to their own trenches. On the rest of the front fire continued more intense in the region of Krevo.

Rumanian Front—There were lively scuffles.

Caucasian Front—The Turks, in the region of the Rayatsek, gave way to our detachments and retired about two miles on the right bank. In the region of Sakhar the Turkish advance was repulsed and the Turkish forces were being placed under censorship. Mrs. Besant is head of the Theosophical Society and was expelled from the Free from the Bombay last year for preaching revolt.

MRS. BESANT IS SILENCED.

Her Home Rule Campaign in India Causes Action.

LONDON, June 23.—Telegrams from Bombay say that the restrictions placed by the Government on Mrs. Annie Besant and her co-workers are one more step to a violent home rule agitation which was distinguished by vilification of everything British and the adoption of measures evoked a storm of protest in the native press and protest meetings were organized. The British press of India welcomes the restrictions.

RUSSIA NO QUITTER, SAYS BAKHMETIEFF

"She Will Not Fail to Be Worthy Partner in League of Honor."

CONGRESS CHEERS HIM

Provisional Government Gains Daily in Power, He Tells Senate and House.

WASHINGTON, June 23.—The new Russian devotion to the cause of democracy against autocracy was pledged in ringing phrases to-day by the Russian Ambassador Bakhmetieff, head of the Russian war mission, speaking to a wildly applauding joint session of the Senate and House.

"With all emphasis," said the ambassador, "may I state that Russia rejects any idea of a separate peace. What Russia desires is the establishment of a firm and lasting peace between democratic nations. The triumph of German autocracy would render such a peace impossible. Russia will be a worthy partner in the league of honor."

No previous incident of the war has stirred the Senate and House with such enthusiasm. Senators and Representatives, who had restrained their applause at the appearance of Marshal Joffre and Secretary Balfour, threw away all reserve and cheered the Russian envoy to the echo.

Speaking in English, the Ambassador declared that Russia was not only a partner in the political regeneration. The democracy with its policy of continuing the war until the Russian people and is opposed only by small groups of extremists.

Silence, Then Applause.

Ambassador Bakhmetieff told of the acts of the Government which led up to its overthrow. His words were listened to with intense interest, but when he began to relate how the Russian people were standing by the new Government and how anxious they were to take part in the new life of the world, the wildest applause interrupted him.

"Instead of the old forms," he said, "there is now a firmly established and deeply embedded in the minds of the nation principles that power is reposed and springs from and only from the people. To enact appropriate fundamental laws—that is going to be the main function of the Constitutional Assembly of the Russian people. It is the substance of the very existence of the State."

"Reposing confidence in such rule, the Russian people are rendering to the new authorities their support. The people are realizing more and more that for the very sake of further freedom law must be maintained and any manifestation of anarchy suppressed."

"It is these conditions which prove that the provisional Government is gaining every day in importance and power. It is gaining capacity to check elements of disorder arising either from attempts of reaction or extremism. At the present time the provisional Government has started to take the most decisive measures in that respect, employing force when necessary, although always striving for peaceful solution."

Aiming at Strong Power.

"The last resolutions which have been framed by the Council of Workmen, Soldiers and Peasants and the democratic organizations render the best proof of the general understanding of the necessity of creating strong power. The coalition character of the new Cabinet, which includes eminent socialist leaders and represents all the vital elements of the nation, therefore enjoying its full support, is most effectively securing the unity and power of the central Government, the lack of which has so keenly felt during the first two months after the revolution."

"Realizing the grandeur and complexity of the present events and conscious of the danger which is threatening the Russian people, the Russian people are gathering around the new Government, are united on a national program. It is the program of national salvation which has united the middle classes as well as the popular, the labor elements and Socialists. In this way the Government is supported by an overwhelming majority of the nation and, outside of reactionaries, is only being opposed by comparatively small groups of extremists and internationalists."

"As to foreign policy, Russia's national program has been clearly set forth in the declaration of the provisional Government of March 27 and more explicitly in the declaration of the new Government of May 18."

"With all emphasis, may I state that Russia rejects any idea of separate peace. I am aware that rumors have circulated in this country that a separate peace was probable. Such rumors are wholly without foundation in fact."

"What Russia is aiming for is the establishment of a firm and lasting peace between democratic nations. The triumph of German autocracy would render such peace impossible. It would be the source of the greatest misery and the most threatening menace to Russia's freedom."

"The provisional Government is making every endeavor to reorganize and fortify the army for action in common with the Allies."

"Russia Will Not Fail."

"Gentlemen of the House, I will close my address by saying: Russia will not fail to be a worthy partner in the League of Honor."

No less enthusiastic than the reception given the Russian leader was the accorded Speaker Clark when he welcomed the mission. He was constantly interrupted as he told how at the time of the Declaration of Independence Switzerland was the only republic, while now there are twenty-seven, largely the result of the efforts of the United States.

"In a larger sense," he said, "we make them, not by conquering armies, not by the mailed fist, but by the wholesome words of our example, by teaching all the world the glorious fact that men can govern themselves."

Members of the Russian mission stood in a receiving line while members of the mission, who had been warmly congratulated Ambassador Bakhmetieff on his address.

"You see how we feel about it," Secretary McAdams said, as he pressed Bakhmetieff's hand. "I came a very fine address to hear you. It was a very fine address."

Such expressions as "You touched the point," "You've hit the bullseye," "You're a dandy," "You're a cracker-jack," "You gave us a lot of reassurance we wanted as the members filed by."

The Russian army has proved to its own satisfaction the vital necessity of crushing German militarism. Lieutenant Gen. Waldimir Roop, military head of the Russian mission, said to-day. The period of calm on the Russian front, he explained, caused first by terrible weather conditions and second by

RUSSIA NO QUITTER, SAYS BAKHMETIEFF

"She Will Not Fail to Be Worthy Partner in League of Honor."

CONGRESS CHEERS HIM

Provisional Government Gains Daily in Power, He Tells Senate and House.

WASHINGTON, June 23.—The new Russian devotion to the cause of democracy against autocracy was pledged in ringing phrases to-day by the Russian Ambassador Bakhmetieff, head of the Russian war mission, speaking to a wildly applauding joint session of the Senate and House.

"With all emphasis," said the ambassador, "may I state that Russia rejects any idea of a separate peace. What Russia desires is the establishment of a firm and lasting peace between democratic nations. The triumph of German autocracy would render such a peace impossible. Russia will be a worthy partner in the league of honor."

No previous incident of the war has stirred the Senate and House with such enthusiasm. Senators and Representatives, who had restrained their applause at the appearance of Marshal Joffre and Secretary Balfour, threw away all reserve and cheered the Russian envoy to the echo.

Speaking in English, the Ambassador declared that Russia was not only a partner in the political regeneration. The democracy with its policy of continuing the war until the Russian people and is opposed only by small groups of extremists.

Silence, Then Applause.

Ambassador Bakhmetieff told of the acts of the Government which led up to its overthrow. His words were listened to with intense interest, but when he began to relate how the Russian people were standing by the new Government and how anxious they were to take part in the new life of the world, the wildest applause interrupted him.

"Instead of the old forms," he said, "there is now a firmly established and deeply embedded in the minds of the nation principles that power is reposed and springs from and only from the people. To enact appropriate fundamental laws—that is going to be the main function of the Constitutional Assembly of the Russian people. It is the substance of the very existence of the State."

"Reposing confidence in such rule, the Russian people are rendering to the new authorities their support. The people are realizing more and more that for the very sake of further freedom law must be maintained and any manifestation of anarchy suppressed."

"It is these conditions which prove that the provisional Government is gaining every day in importance and power. It is gaining capacity to check elements of disorder arising either from attempts of reaction or extremism. At the present time the provisional Government has started to take the most decisive measures in that respect, employing force when necessary, although always striving for peaceful solution."

Aiming at Strong Power.

"The last resolutions which have been framed by the Council of Workmen, Soldiers and Peasants and the democratic organizations render the best proof of the general understanding of the necessity of creating strong power. The coalition character of the new Cabinet, which includes eminent socialist leaders and represents all the vital elements of the nation, therefore enjoying its full support, is most effectively securing the unity and power of the central Government, the lack of which has so keenly felt during the first two months after the revolution."

"Realizing the grandeur and complexity of the present events and conscious of the danger which is threatening the Russian people, the Russian people are gathering around the new Government, are united on a national program. It is the program of national salvation which has united the middle classes as well as the popular, the labor elements and Socialists. In this way the Government is supported by an overwhelming majority of the nation and, outside of reactionaries, is only being opposed by comparatively small groups of extremists and internationalists."

"As to foreign policy, Russia's national program has been clearly set forth in the declaration of the provisional Government of March 27 and more explicitly in the declaration of the new Government of May 18."

"With all emphasis, may I state that Russia rejects any idea of separate peace. I am aware that rumors have circulated in this country that a separate peace was probable. Such rumors are wholly without foundation in fact."

"What Russia is aiming for is the establishment of a firm and lasting peace between democratic nations. The triumph of German autocracy would render such peace impossible. It would be the source of the greatest misery and the most threatening menace to Russia's freedom."

"The provisional Government is making every endeavor to reorganize and fortify the army for action in common with the Allies."

"Russia Will Not Fail."

"Gentlemen of the House, I will close my address by saying: Russia will not fail to be a worthy partner in the League of Honor."

No less enthusiastic than the reception given the Russian leader was the accorded Speaker Clark when he welcomed the mission. He was constantly interrupted as he told how at the time of the Declaration of Independence Switzerland was the only republic, while now there are twenty-seven, largely the result of the efforts of the United States.

"In a larger sense," he said, "we make them, not by conquering armies, not by the mailed fist, but by the wholesome words of our example, by teaching all the world the glorious fact that men can govern themselves."

Members of the Russian mission stood in a receiving line while members of the mission, who had been warmly congratulated Ambassador Bakhmetieff on his address.

"You see how we feel about it," Secretary McAdams said, as he pressed Bakhmetieff's hand. "I came a very fine address to hear you. It was a very fine address."

Such expressions as "You touched the point," "You've hit the bullseye," "You're a dandy," "You're a cracker-jack," "You gave us a lot of reassurance we wanted as the members filed by."

The Russian army has proved to its own satisfaction the vital necessity of crushing German militarism. Lieutenant Gen. Waldimir Roop, military head of the Russian mission, said to-day. The period of calm on the Russian front, he explained, caused first by terrible weather conditions and second by

It means that a revolution also would permeate Germany, is ended. Discipline has been restored, the munition supply is once more flowing and the weather is advantageous for operations.

"The attention of the army in the trenches," the General said, "was not turned aside by the events that were changing the political organization of the country, all the more as these events occurred only in the rear of the Russian front during the winter months. It is small wonder that the people, unaccustomed to the freedom they had just conquered, could not conceive at the time the necessary interdependence of freedom and discipline."

"Not only were the soldiers deceived by the Germans, but our enemies even tried to make profit of their confidence for the sake of their imperialistic aims. It then became clear that the only way to attain guarantees of a lasting world peace is to crush with arms the German imperialistic system."

"The common sense of the Russian soldiers makes them see that they are strong only if they keep a firm hand on the reins of their imperialistic aims. It then became clear that the only way to attain guarantees of a lasting world peace is to crush with arms the German imperialistic system."

"The common sense of the Russian soldiers makes them see that they are strong only if they keep a firm hand on the reins of their imperialistic aims. It then became clear that the only way to attain guarantees of a lasting world peace is to crush with arms the German imperialistic system."

"The common sense of the Russian soldiers makes them see that they are strong only if they keep a firm hand on the reins of their imperialistic aims. It then became clear that the only way to attain guarantees of a lasting world peace is to crush with arms the German imperialistic system."

"The common sense of the Russian soldiers makes them see that they are strong only if they keep a firm hand on the reins of their imperialistic aims. It then became clear that the only way to attain guarantees of a lasting world peace is to crush with arms the German imperialistic system."

"The common sense of the Russian soldiers makes them see that they are strong only if they keep a firm hand on the reins of their imperialistic aims. It then became clear that the only way to attain guarantees of a lasting world peace is to crush with arms the German imperialistic system."

"The common sense of the Russian soldiers makes them see that they are strong only if they keep a firm hand on the reins of their imperialistic aims. It then became clear that the only way to attain guarantees of a lasting world peace is to crush with arms the German imperialistic system."

"The common sense of the Russian soldiers makes them see that they are strong only if they keep a firm hand on the reins of their imperialistic aims. It then became clear that the only way to attain guarantees of a lasting world peace is to crush with arms the German imperialistic system."

"The common sense of the Russian soldiers makes them see that they are strong only if they keep a firm hand on the reins of their imperialistic aims. It then became clear that the only way to attain guarantees of a lasting world peace is to crush with arms the German imperialistic system."

"The common sense of the Russian soldiers makes them see that they are strong only if they keep a firm hand on the reins of their imperialistic aims. It then became clear that the only way to attain guarantees of a lasting world peace is to crush with arms the German imperialistic system."

"The common sense of the Russian soldiers makes them see that they are strong only if they keep a firm hand on the reins of their imperialistic aims. It then became clear that the only way to attain guarantees of a lasting world peace is to crush with arms the German imperialistic system."

"The common sense of the Russian soldiers makes them see that they are strong only if they keep a firm hand on the reins of their imperialistic aims. It then became clear that the only way to attain guarantees of a lasting world peace is to crush with arms the German imperialistic system."

"The common sense of the Russian soldiers makes them see that they are strong only if they keep a firm hand on the reins of their imperialistic aims. It then became clear that the only way to attain guarantees of a lasting world peace is to crush with arms the German imperialistic system."

"The common sense of the Russian soldiers makes them see that they are strong only if they keep a firm hand on the reins of their imperialistic aims. It then became clear that the only way to attain guarantees of a lasting world peace is to crush with arms the German imperialistic system."

"The common sense of the Russian soldiers makes them see that they are strong only if they keep a firm hand on the reins of their imperialistic aims. It then became clear that the only way to attain guarantees of a lasting world peace is to crush with arms the German imperialistic system."

"The common sense of the Russian soldiers makes them see that they are strong only if they keep a firm hand on the reins of their imperialistic aims. It then became clear that the only way to attain guarantees of a lasting world peace is to crush with arms the German imperialistic system."

"The common sense of the Russian soldiers makes them see that they are strong only if they keep a firm hand on the reins of their imperialistic aims. It then became clear that the only way to attain guarantees of a lasting world peace is to crush with arms the German imperialistic system."

"The common sense of the Russian soldiers makes them see that they are strong only if they keep a firm hand on the reins of their imperialistic aims. It then became clear that the only way to attain guarantees of a lasting world peace is to crush with arms the German imperialistic system."

"The common sense of the Russian soldiers makes them see that they are strong only if they keep a firm hand on the reins of their imperialistic aims. It then became clear that the only way to attain guarantees of a lasting world peace is to crush with arms the German imperialistic system."

"The common sense of the Russian soldiers makes them see that they are strong only if they keep a firm hand on the reins of their imperialistic aims. It then became clear that the only way to attain guarantees of a lasting world peace is to crush with arms the German imperialistic system."

"The common sense of the Russian soldiers makes them see that they are strong only if they keep a firm hand on the reins of their imperialistic aims. It then became clear that the only way to attain guarantees of a lasting world peace is to crush with arms the German imperialistic system."

"The common sense of the Russian soldiers makes them see that they are strong only if they keep a firm hand on the reins of their imperialistic aims. It then became clear that the only way to attain guarantees of a lasting world peace is to crush with arms the German imperialistic system."

"The common sense of the Russian soldiers makes them see that they are strong only if they keep a firm hand on the reins of their imperialistic aims. It then became clear that the only way to attain guarantees of a lasting world peace is to crush with arms the German imperialistic system."

"The common sense of the Russian soldiers makes them see that they are strong only if they keep a firm hand on the reins of their imperialistic aims. It then became clear that the only way to attain guarantees of a lasting world peace is to crush with arms the German imperialistic system."

"The common sense of the Russian soldiers makes them see that they are strong only if they keep a firm hand on the reins of their imperialistic aims. It then became clear that the only way to attain guarantees of a lasting world peace is to crush with arms the German imperialistic system."

"The common sense of the Russian soldiers makes them see that they are strong only if they keep a firm hand on the reins of their imperialistic aims. It then became clear that the only way to attain guarantees of a lasting world peace is to crush with arms the German imperialistic system."

"The common sense of the Russian soldiers makes them see that they are strong only if they keep a firm hand on the reins of their imperialistic aims. It then became clear that the only way to attain guarantees of a lasting world peace is to crush with arms the German imperialistic system."

"The common sense of the Russian soldiers makes them see that they are strong only if they keep a firm hand on the reins of their imperialistic aims. It then became clear that the only way to attain guarantees of a lasting world peace is to crush with arms the German imperialistic system."

"The common sense of the Russian soldiers makes them see that they are strong only if they keep a firm hand on the reins of their imperialistic aims. It then became clear that the only way to attain guarantees of a lasting world peace is to crush with arms the German imperialistic system."

"The common sense of the Russian soldiers makes them see that they are strong only if they keep a firm hand on the reins of their imperialistic aims. It then became clear that the only way to attain guarantees of a lasting world peace is to crush with arms the German imperialistic system."

"The common sense of the Russian soldiers makes them see that they are strong only if they keep a firm hand on the reins of their imperialistic aims. It then became clear that the only way to attain guarantees of a lasting world peace is to crush with arms the German imperialistic system."

"The common sense of the Russian soldiers makes them see that they are strong only if they keep a firm hand on the reins of their imperialistic aims. It then became clear that the only way to attain guarantees of a lasting world peace is to crush with arms the German imperialistic system."

"The common sense of the Russian soldiers makes them see that they are strong only if they keep a firm hand on the reins of their imperialistic aims. It then became clear that the only way to attain guarantees of a lasting world peace is to crush with arms the German imperialistic system."

"The common sense of the Russian soldiers makes them see that they are strong only if they keep a firm hand on the reins of their imperialistic aims. It then became clear that the only way to attain guarantees of a lasting world peace is to crush with arms the German imperialistic system."

"The common sense of the Russian soldiers makes them see that they are strong only if they keep a firm hand on the reins of their imperialistic aims. It then became clear that the only way to attain guarantees of a lasting world peace is to crush with arms the German imperialistic system."

"The common sense of the Russian soldiers makes them see that they are strong only if they keep a firm hand on the reins of their imperialistic aims. It then became clear that the only way to attain guarantees of a lasting world peace is to crush with arms the German imperialistic system."

"The common sense of the Russian soldiers makes them see that they are strong only if they keep a firm hand on the reins of their imperialistic aims. It then became clear that the only way to attain guarantees of a lasting world peace is to crush with arms the German imperialistic system."

"The common sense of the Russian soldiers makes them see that they are strong only if they keep a firm hand on the reins of their imperialistic aims. It then became clear that the only way to attain guarantees of a lasting world peace is to crush with arms the German imperialistic system."

"The common sense of the Russian soldiers makes them see that they are strong only if they keep a firm hand on the reins of their imperialistic aims. It then became clear that the only way to attain guarantees of a lasting world peace is to crush with arms the German imperialistic system."

"The common sense of the Russian soldiers makes them see that they are strong only if they keep a firm hand on the reins of their imperialistic aims. It then became clear that the only way to attain guarantees of a lasting world peace is to crush with arms the German imperialistic system."

"The common sense of the Russian soldiers makes them see that they are strong only if they keep a firm hand on the reins of their imperialistic aims. It then became clear that the only way to attain guarantees of a lasting world peace is to crush with arms the German imperialistic system."

"The common sense of the Russian soldiers makes them see that they are strong only if they keep a firm hand on the reins of their imperialistic aims. It then became clear that the only way to attain guarantees of a lasting world peace is to crush with arms the German imperialistic system."

"The common sense of the Russian soldiers makes them see that they are strong only if they keep a firm hand on the reins of their imperialistic aims. It then became clear that the only way to attain guarantees of a lasting world peace is to crush with arms the German imperialistic system."

"The common sense of the Russian soldiers makes them see that they are strong only if they keep a firm hand on the reins of their imperialistic aims. It then became clear that the only way to attain guarantees of a lasting world peace is to crush with arms the German imperialistic system."

"The common sense of the Russian soldiers makes them see that they are strong only if they keep a firm hand on the reins of their imperialistic aims. It then became clear that the only way to attain guarantees of a lasting world peace is to crush with arms the German imperialistic system."

"The common sense of the Russian soldiers makes them see that they are strong only if they keep a firm hand on the reins of their imperialistic aims. It then became clear that the only way to attain guarantees of a lasting world peace is to crush with arms the German imperialistic system."

"The common sense of the Russian soldiers makes them see that they are strong only if they keep a firm hand on the reins of their imperialistic aims. It then became clear that the only way to attain guarantees of a lasting world peace is to crush with arms the German imperialistic system."

"The common sense of the Russian soldiers makes them see that they are strong only if they keep a firm hand on the reins of their imperialistic aims. It then became clear that the only way to attain guarantees of a lasting world peace is to crush with arms the German imperialistic system."

"The common sense of the Russian soldiers makes them see that they are strong only if they keep a firm hand on the reins of their imperialistic aims. It then became clear that the only way to attain guarantees of a lasting world peace is to crush with arms the German imperialistic system."

"The common sense of the Russian soldiers makes them see that they are strong only if they keep a firm hand on the reins of their imperialistic aims. It then became clear that the only way to attain guarantees of a lasting world peace is to crush with arms the German imperialistic system."

"The common sense of the Russian soldiers makes them see that they are strong only if they keep a firm hand on the reins of their imperialistic aims. It then became clear that the only way to attain guarantees of a lasting world peace is to crush with arms the German imperialistic system."

"The common sense of the Russian soldiers makes them see that they are strong only if they keep a firm hand on the reins of their imperialistic aims. It then became clear that the only way to attain guarantees of a lasting world peace is to crush with arms the German imperialistic system."

"The common sense of the Russian soldiers makes them see that they are strong only if they keep a firm hand on the reins of their imperialistic aims. It then became clear that the only way to attain guarantees of a lasting world peace is to crush with arms the German imperialistic system."

"The common sense of the Russian soldiers makes them see that they are strong only if they keep a firm hand on the reins of their imperialistic aims. It then became clear that the only way to attain guarantees of a lasting world peace is to crush with arms the German imperialistic system."

"The common sense of the Russian soldiers makes them see that they are strong only if they keep a firm hand on the reins of their imperialistic aims. It then became clear that the only way to attain guarantees of a lasting world peace is to crush with arms the German imperialistic system."

"The common sense of the Russian soldiers makes them see that they are strong only if they keep a firm hand on the reins of their imperialistic aims. It then became clear that the only way to attain guarantees of a lasting world peace is to crush with arms the German imperialistic system."

"The common sense of the Russian soldiers makes them see that they are strong only if they keep a firm hand on the reins of their imperialistic aims. It then became clear that the only way to attain guarantees of a lasting world peace is to crush with arms the German imperialistic system."

"The common sense of the Russian soldiers makes them see that they are strong only if they keep a firm hand on the reins of their imperialistic aims. It then became clear that the only way to attain guarantees of a lasting world peace is to crush with arms the German imperialistic system."

"The common sense of the Russian soldiers makes them see that they are strong only if they keep a firm hand on the reins of their imperialistic aims. It then became clear that the only way to attain guarantees of a lasting world peace is to crush with arms the German imperialistic system."

"The common sense of the Russian soldiers makes them see that they are strong only if they keep a firm hand on the reins of their imperialistic aims. It then became clear that the only way to attain guarantees of a lasting world peace is to crush with arms the German imperialistic system."

"The common sense of the Russian soldiers makes them see that they are strong only if they keep a firm hand on the reins of their imperialistic aims. It then became clear that the only way to attain guarantees of a lasting world peace is to crush with arms the German imperialistic system."

"The